Cancer of the Nose.

In 1928 my nose appeared on my nose grew rapidly. As my father had cancer and my husband died of it, I became alarmed, and consulted my physician. His treatment did no good, and the nose grew larger and worse in every way until I had come to feel I was to die from its effects. I persuaded to take S. S. S., and a few hours passed me. This was after all the doctors other medicines had failed. I have the return of the cancer:

BAGGING BOODLERS.

The Grand-Jury Resumes Its Investigation Into the Crookedness at the City Hall.

A Number of Citizens Summoned as Witnesses To-Day to the Four Courts.

Mr. J. R. Case Told How He Received an Offer on the Supposition That He Would Carry It to Congressman N. O. Nelson—The Union Market Charges Under Investigation—Though an Army of Witnesses Are in Waiting, the Jury Suddenly Declines to Adjourn Until Next Wednesday—What Did the Jurors Hear That Caused a Change of Program?—No Room for Witnesses in the Circuit Attorney's Office.

The ball opened to-day, and the Grand-jury will entertain if they do not amuse a number of well-known gentlemen who have more or less been summoned to the court that has grown up in St. Louis of demanding boodle for every privilege that is wanted from the city.

The investigation to-day was practical, earnest and successful. There was no equivocation on the part of any one, so far as could be observed, and certainly the amount of information the Grand-jury obtained is sufficient to show that the gentlemen who appeared as witnesses were frank in their statements. Many of those who responded to the subpoenas did not get into the Grand-jury room, some because there was not room to listen to them all, some because it was said the investigation has taken such a turn as to make it advisable to keep them out because they may be themselves the subjects, if not the witnesses, in the investigation.

One thing was noticeable, i. e. the look of satisfaction on the faces of some men who are not utter strangers to boodle methods, who were glad to appear in the role of witnesses, assured that the testimony they would give would secure for them exemption from the list of defendants.

In the witness-room this morning were a number of witnesses whose presence indicated that the Grand-jury was seriously at work.

J. B. Johnson of the Brenham-Hordesty-Johnson combination was present and was called in. His testimony explained why J. B. Case of the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Co. was called last Friday. Mr. Johnson went before the Grand-jury and testified to two incidents that were exceedingly interesting.

He was very frank in the way in which he told his story, which was simply this: "When I wanted to get a bill through," he said, "I went to Mr. Case and asked him to urge Mr. Nelson to vote for it if he saw no objection to it. Mr. Case asked me to let him have a copy of the bill to show to Mr. Nelson and I gave him one. I saw him afterwards and he said that Mr. Nelson had looked over the bill, and though he was in favor of the city owning its own works he did not like that bill. I said to Mr. Case that if the bill passed we would build gas works here and a large quantity of supplies would have to be bought, and we certainly would patronize home industries. I asked him to urge Mr. Nelson again to vote for the bill. The other case was that of a Comptroller. He came to me one day and said:

"Is your name J. B. Johnson?" "Yes," I said, "it is."

"Are you interested in the gas bill?" he asked. "You bet I am."

"Is there any money in it?" asked Horton. "Yes," I said, "there is a margin of about $800,000."

"I then told him that if the bill passed we would patronize home industries," he said, "and that was all there was to it. He didn't ask me for any money, and I didn't give him any. Mr. Case told me that the only money we spent, so far as I knew, was $3.25, a stenographer's bill for reporting a speech, and $20 for some thing like that, for printing. He asked me how we got the votes, and I told him just how."

After Johnson's testimony from the Grand-jury began to call in the other witnesses. Mr. Charles Green was one of them. When he was called in, he was asked to grant him the right to extend his line.

ALONG BROAD AVENUE. The Grand-jury wanted to know about the sum of $800,000, it was alleged, was paid to certain members of the House of Delegates to vote for the bill, and the case is being investigated.

murder case to send the State's witnesses into the Circuit Attorney's office. Mr. Bishop, the Assistant Circuit Attorney, jumped up rather hastily and said: "Your Honor, the Circuit Attorney's office is closed to-day."

And the witnesses had to be given other quarters, as soon as the jury adjourned. Mr. Clover left the building and he was not seen again. No one knew where he went, or why he left, and no one could account for his absence.

Just what these strange circumstances mean no one knows. There was a report that several bench warrants were out, but it did not seem to be true.

Mr. Zehrer declined to state why the Grand-jury adjourned until Wednesday, and when spoken to simply referred to the statement that had been made that he had summoned witnesses that Mr. Clover did not want, and said he had summoned every witness at the direction of Mr. Clover. He would only say that the Grand-jury adjourned because they wanted to.

The sudden adjournment, and the closing of Mr. Clover's office, caused a good deal of comment around the Four Courts, and there were numerous inquiries about the cause.

AMONG THE BROKERS.

Activity in La Union—Stocks Sold and Prices Obtained.

La Union was in strong demand and was heavily traded in, nearly all the brokers present taking a hand. The market opened at bid, and a large amount was transferred at this figure. Buyers, however, proved more numerous than sellers, and after 1,800 shares had changed hands, the price rose to 74. At this point the market aggregated 3,400 shares, and after this amount had been disposed of the price rose to 75. This figure was for a while slow, but Big Sawyer began to bid freely and soon there was a rush for the stock. 3,500 shares were sold at this price, and after this the price began to rise. None, however, could be obtained, and finally buyers concluded to give this price, 5,000 shares being transferred. May was a large seller at this price, and the market dropped to 8, the cash sale being one of 200 shares at this figure.

The quotations on call to-day were as follows:

Trading was very active and prices generally higher.

Silver was $1.25 bid, but subsequently rose to $1.26 which figure 100 shares changed hands, the bids then receding to their former figure.

Granite Mountain opened at $47 bid, and rose to $47.50, at which price 40 shares were sold.

SOME COMPLAINTS ANSWERED.

A Gentleman Who Thinks He Was Wronged in the World's Fair Contest.

Anthony Carrow writes to the Post-Dispatch to complain of the treatment he has received in the World's Fair Guessing Contest. He says that during last week he sent four blanks to this office on three separate occasions, single guesses twice and two guesses in one package. His complaint is that in the list of guesses printed yesterday no mention of his name was made. He says he has repeatedly made in these columns concerning these guesses, but that he has not received any notice. TOOK THE VELL.

Miss Annie Von Schroeder of St. Louis Enjoys the Georgetown Convention.

Miss Annie Von Schroeder, who took the vell yesterday at the Georgetown Convention, a member of an old and well-known St. Louis family. She is one of seven children, four daughters and three sons, and the family is wealthy, but the statement sent to the Post-Dispatch yesterday, that she was heiress to half a million of dollars, is a gross exaggeration. Her fortune, which she inherited from her father, is in society in St. Louis for a number of years, and is very popular. About two years ago she went to Georgetown and was much missed by her numerous friends in St. Louis, as she is a popular social figure and a very kind and considerate. Her family feel her loss very much. The young lady was always a very religious step she has and none of the life to devote her life to religious work. Her mother was and is a beautiful woman, and was firm in her determination to devote her life to religious work. Her mother was and is a beautiful woman, and was firm in her determination to devote her life to religious work.

THE WORLD'S ALMANAC.

A Reference Book Which No One Should Be Without.

This morning the World's Almanac and Bureau of Information for the year 1890 was received and is for sale in the business office of the Post-Dispatch. This book furnishes in a convenient and intelligible form a mass amount of information on a great variety of subjects and as a book of reference is invaluable. It has been compiled with the greatest care and can be relied on for accuracy. It is the largest and most complete business office of the Post-Dispatch. The price is 25 cents. It is sent by mail the post will be 10 cents. The cover is a fine illustration of the new World Building.

Chas. Davidson, Nashville, Tenn.; Frank Dobson, Bloomington, Ill.; H. Hirsch, Amherst, Tex.; and Edward W. Furell, London, England, are of the Hotel St. Louis.

NOT FOR CAPT. BRIDGES.

EX-CONGRESSMAN GUNTHER NOMINATED FOR THE MEXICAN CONSULSHIP.

The Missouriian Takes His Defeat Philosophically—Ex-Judge Louis Getchell, Formerly of St. Louis, Appointed Consul to Stuttgart—The World's Fair Bill—A Big Batch of Presidential Nominations.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—The surprise occasioned by the selection of ex-Congressman Gunther of Wisconsin as Consul-General to Mexico, against L. L. Bridges of Seattle, was not yet quieted down. Capt. Bridges takes the matter very philosophically and says that all he now wants to know is whether his people at home would know how to accept the matter. His good-natured smile in the face of defeat has caused renewed efforts on the part of the representative Missouri Republicans here in his behalf for "something equally as good."

If not better. The word comes from the Executive that either Mr. Wallace or Bridges will be nominated for a foreign place. The Missouriians are all withdrawing their support from Wallace for the Mexican Consulship, since they have learned that he is not a resident of the State, having sold out all his possessions there. They have entered their protest to the full delegation in Congress against Mr. Wallace's appointment as from Missouri.

The President, however, has no regard for Judges Lawrence and Delano of Ohio, who, as members of the Wool Growers' Association, have endorsed Wallace. On the other hand, all of those who are from Missouri and who oppose Wallace are pulling for Bridges. Mr. H. B. Blodgett called at the White House this morning to push the Sedalia lawyer's case and others are doing the same thing. As between Wallace and Bridges, there is but one verdict among the Missouri people. Mr. Bridges has made a quiet, gentlemanly canvass, is a good lawyer, and thoroughly backed by the labor element of his State. Missouri will likely get one more consulship.

Hon. Matt G. Reynolds of St. Louis arrived here to-day to look after his case. He has been before the Cherokee Indian Commission. Mr. Orrick delivered his argument in the settlement of the Cherokee Indian land titles this morning.

Mr. Chas. Wenner of St. Louis, Collector of Internal Revenue, will have a first interview with the Internal Revenue Commissioner this morning, prior to returning home. Mr. Wm. A. Smith is rapidly improving from the influenza, which has had him down for a few days.

THE WORLD'S FAIR WORK.

The World's Fair advocates for St. Louis expect that Chicago will be an opportunity to display her full strength in the House between now and Wednesday. The committee here do not feel that bright over St. Louis prospects this morning as they did ten days ago, but they do not think the matter has partaken more or less of a political complexion, and there was no preparation on the part of the fair advocates here. It is expected that the Hittite resolution will go to the special committee, by the St. Louis people, which would place them just at this time. If a vote is forced, it is feared the Chicago and her allies will have outvoted their own friends before pushing the matter.

BANKER DITTMAN'S REMAINS FOUND.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 27.—Banker Dittman, who has been missing since December 18, has been found floating in the Schuylkill River near the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge at Filbert street. As soon as the news was known an immense crowd gathered and watched the body floating on the water until the police boat arrived and carried it to shore. The body was fully identified. Joseph Dittman was the President of the Quaker City Bank and was thought to be wealthy. On December 18 his car was found empty and Mr. Dittman was never seen again until his body was taken out of the river yesterday. His business affairs were somewhat mixed up at the time. He had $100,000 insurance on his life.

STONEMEN'S CONVENTION.

At 9:30 this morning the annual convention of journeymen stonemasons assembled in the St. James Hotel. About forty delegates were present, representing over a dozen States. The meeting was called by the Grand Master, Fred J. St. Louis. The meeting was held with closed doors, nothing beyond routine business was transacted. There was a vacancy in the Grand Master's office, and the delegates were asked to elect a new one. The delegates were asked to elect a new one. The delegates were asked to elect a new one.

WANDERED AWAY WHILE DEMENTED.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch. MEXICO, Mo., Jan. 27.—Ed Wilson, a well-known farmer and stockman of this county, was found floating in the river yesterday morning in a demented state. He had been wandering all night in his shirt sleeves and bareheaded, and was nearly frozen. He had a revolver, knife, razor and a pair of brass knuckles with which to defend himself.

A BIG TRINITION.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 27.—The Journal's Ashland (Wis.) special says: G. A. J. Bodenschmidt of Chicago has purchased the brown stone quarries of the Ashland Co. located on Freestone street. The transfer involves several hundred thousand dollars. The purchasers will develop the quarries on a large scale.

OFFICE MEN'S CLUB.

On Tuesday evening, January 28, the Office Men's Club will hold a meeting at its hall, 3022 and 3024 Olive street. Mr. Isaac H. Lionberger will be the essayist of the evening and will read a paper on the subject of "Riches and Poverty." The transfer involves several hundred thousand dollars. The purchasers will develop the quarries on a large scale.

A TEMPORARY SETTLEMENT.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 27.—The dead lock in the temporary organization of the House terminated shortly before noon by the unanimous adoption of a compromise making Hotchkiss, Democrat, Temporary Speaker and Wilcox, Republican, Temporary Clerk. The fight will be renewed on the permanent organization.

HERMAN UMRATH FALLS.

Herman Umrath, the hardware dealer at 2119 North Broadway, was levied on to-day on attachments filed by his creditors. William Umrath, son of the hardware dealer, was levied on to-day on attachments filed by his creditors. William Umrath, son of the hardware dealer, was levied on to-day on attachments filed by his creditors.

A TRADITION OF THE HARPERS.

Each Son of the Great Publishers Given a J in His Name. A constant figure around Franklin Square is that of J. Thorne Harper of the great publishing house of that name. He is a tall, handsome, blonde gentleman, with the muscles and gait of a professional athlete. He is the possessor of a great name, and is as well known as any man in the publishing business. He is very popular among his employees. A curious feature about him and the other members of his family is that they are all addressed by their middle names rather than their first or last.

INTERNAL REVENUE APPOINTMENTS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—The Secretary of the Treasury has made the following appointments in the internal revenue service: H. H. Fisher, Storekeeper and Gauger, Ninth Pennsylvania District; J. L. Snyder, Storekeeper and Gauger, Ninth Pennsylvania District; M. Tschopp, Storekeeper and Gauger, Ninth Pennsylvania District; Geo. M. Bette, Gauger, First Ohio District; Gabriel Smyr, Gauger, First Ohio District; Geo. Wetzel, Gauger, First Ohio District.

THE FAIR BILL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—The Ways and Means Committee further progressed toward the preparation of a tariff bill at its meeting this morning by ordering the cotton schedules of last year. The Senate has attached to the schedule already passed upon. The Democratic minority confined its opposition to offering substitutes for the cotton schedules of the Mills bill, which were rejected by party votes.

SPECIAL AGENT PHOEBE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—Robert P. Porter, Superintendent of the Census, has appointed Miss Phoebe Cousins of St. Louis, special agent of the Eleventh Census for the collection of statistics of recorded indebtedness for the city of St. Louis.

FIFTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—Mr. Hoar presented the resolutions adopted at a mass-meeting held recently in Tremont Temple, Boston, on the subject of the cruel deprivation of colored people of the right to take part in elections in some of the Southern States, read the substance of them and had them referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Among the bills reported were the following: To increase the limit of cost for a public building at El Paso, Tex., from $100,000 to $200,000; to increase the appropriation for the site and building at Omaha, Neb., to $2,000,000.

Mr. Cockrell introduced a bill to repeal the silver coinage act of February 28, 1875, and require the purchase and coinage of $5,000,000 a month in standard silver dollars. Mr. Cockrell also introduced a bill to require the purchase and coinage of $5,000,000 a month in standard silver dollars.

The bill heretofore passed by the Senate for a bill to amend the act of August 20, 1878, was reconsidered and (on motion of Mr. Frye) was amended by providing that the bill be not be located within one-third of a mile of any existing bridge, and the bill was again passed.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—Mr. Lawler of Illinois presented a petition of citizens of Chicago, protesting against the reimpounding of iron, crockery, china and glassware packages. Among the bills introduced were these: By Mr. J. D. Taylor of Ohio—For public building at Steubenville, O.

By Mr. Barnes of Georgia—Making the United States arsenal at Augusta, Ga., an arsenal for manufacture, construction and repair.

By Mr. Mason of Illinois—Appropriating $2,000,000 for a Post-office at Chicago, Ill. By Mr. Schrieber of Iowa—The appointment of a Commissioner of Immigration; also prohibiting the transportation of intoxicating liquors from one State or Territory to another State or Territory in violation of the laws thereof.

By Mr. Kelley of Kansas—To pension the widows and orphans of people killed for political purposes since the close of the late war.

By Mr. Burrows of Michigan—For the erection of a memorial to the soldiers of the War of 1812. Mr. McCreary offered a resolution declaring that the United States of America congratulate the people of Brazil in their first peaceful assumption of the powers, duties and responsibilities of self-government; that the Republic of Brazil is entitled to the exercise and enjoyment of international commercial relations and advantages on existing treaties; that the United States of America as a free sovereign State, a Republic, and that the President shall give proper notice of this recognition to the President of the United States of Brazil. Referred.

A BROKEN STATUTE

AMUSEMENTS TO-NIGHT.

The two Congressional districts of northwestern Missouri, the Twelfth and thirteenth, are respectively represented by the Democratic State Committee by W. J. PHELPS of Carthage and EDWARD O'DAY of Springfield. Mr. O'DAY is the brother and successor of the "Frisco Railroad" distinguished Democratic machine manager, Col. JOHN O'DAY. Since Mr. PHELPS was made a member of the committee to represent the Twelfth District, J. J. GAY BOULE has promoted him, and his chief business office is now in the Missouri National Bank building.

OFFICIAL FAVOR FOR CRIMINALS.

THE subsidy grabbers are circulating petitions among the farmers asking for a bounty of 50 cents a barrel on all flour shipped to foreign ports in American built and American owned vessels. In other words, the farmer is asked to petition for an additional tax on the transportation of his products to market, to pay the carriers a premium over present freight rates, and not to secure a reduction of those rates. A bounty for the benefit of wheat producers will be paid
